

Tom Loveland EROS Geography Scholarship at South Dakota State University

The EROS Scholarship in the Department of Geography was established in 2011 by Tom Loveland. The scholarship has been supported through annual gifts made by EROS employees ever since. Following the passing of Tom, EROS colleagues collectively decided it would be an honor to name the scholarship after the geography visionary himself, thus the Tom Loveland EROS Geography Scholarship was created.

Our goal is to raise a minimum of $50,000 to endow the Tom Loveland EROS Geography Scholarship. An endowment will permanently preserve Tom's contribution and impact on the geography community. The hope is that Tom's passion is inspirational to those in a similar field of study that will follow. A $50,000 endowment will provide an annual $2,000 scholarship award in perpetuity.

Ways to support the Tom Loveland EROS Geography Scholarship:

- One-time gift of cash or marketable assets; or
- Multi-year pledge or installment plan
